College Readiness Program for 8th and 9th Graders

Benefits for Students

- Curriculum-based assessment that measures the knowledge and skills critical to college success
- Helps increase student achievement, whether students are college-bound or headed for the world of work
- Increases a student's probability of planning to go to college
- Includes a career planning component that helps students identify career areas that align with their interests and engages students in imagining their future
- Provides diagnostic student-level item analysis

Additional Benefits

- Increased opportunities for minority, middle and low income, and male students
- Measures students' progress toward college readiness and state standards
- Students who are ready for college are less likely to need remediation
- Promotes educational and career planning
- Correlates with increases in college enrollment, persistence, and success
- Economic Impact – Students with a bachelor's degree earn almost $1,000,000 more over their lifetime than students with a high school diploma, resulting in a higher taxable income, which results in lower expenditures on welfare and other assistance programs.¹
