“Understanding our own culture and what it’s doing to contribute to college readiness is important.”

— Bud McMillion, Instructional Facilitator, Arkadelphia High School

“If we really care about kids, what we want are better results on the tests that are going to get them into college and college scholarships. When we say we value the ACT results and we’re going to take assessments once a year to find out where your kids are moving towards that college and career readiness benchmark, parents say that’s a value they can get behind.”

— Declan FitzPatrick, Executive Director of Curriculum and Instruction, Fox C-6 School District, MO

For many students, attending college and going on to fulfilling careers is part of a lifelong plan. The ACT® test is an essential part of making those plans possible.

ACT scores are accepted by 4-year college and university and provide students with access to millions of dollars in scholarships. For educators, these test results provide you with the data to position students for success after high school.

“Standards are meaningless until you define how to assess them. Therefore, assessments are the starting point.”

— Dr. Jorge Peña, Former Director of School Improvement and Catholic School Accreditation, Archdiocese of Chicago

What does it mean to be “career ready”? While there is no single answer to that question, almost every answer includes a core set of foundational skills in Applied Math, Workplace Documents, and Graphic Literacy. ACT® WorkKeys® Assessments and Curriculum helps individuals demonstrate their job readiness while enabling communities, educators, and employers to build a skilled workforce in a rapidly changing environment.

“For those who do choose a CTE [career and technical education] path, they would also leave with some industry-standard credentials and technical studies, so we think it’s a good way to ensure students have a broad array of choices after they graduate.”

— Jo Ann Honeycutt, CTE Director at North Carolina DPI

The ACT® WorkKeys® National Career Readiness Certificate® (NCRC®) is a portable, evidence-based credential that certifies the essential skills for workplace success. Employers look for it from job candidates, whether they come directly from high school, work-based learning programs, or through postsecondary paths, because it is a valid predictor of job performance.
